About KEDARNATH

Nestled in the Garhwal Himalayas along the banks of the Mandakini River, Kedarnath Temple is one of the most sacred shrines dedicated to Lord Shiva. Owing to its high-altitude location and extreme weather, the temple remains open to devotees only from (Akshaya Tritiya) to (Kartik Purnima).

During the winter, when heavy snowfall makes the region inaccessible, the idol of Lord Shiva is ceremoniously shifted to Ukhimath, where it continues to be worshipped for six months. Revered as the spiritual heart of Kedarkhand—the ancient name of the region—Kedarnath stands as a timeless symbol of devotion, resilience, and divine energy.
